TOWN & COUNTRY CEDAR HOMES RECEIVES EXPORTING RECOGNITION AWARD

During an Exporting Basics seminar hosted by Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, Town & Country Cedar Homes was recognized by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce's U.S. Commercial Service for their successes in developing an export program. In an effort to broaden their sales of cedar building products, Town & Country worked with the Commercial Service to identify countries that offered suitable markets for them. They have exported cedar products to Japan and Korea, with plans of expanding to the Turkish marketplace and Canada.

On hand for the presentation are (from left) Scott Paquette, Town & Country employee; Thomas Maguire, Commercial Service director/international trade specialist; Stephanie Baldwin, Town & Country president; Roger Srigley, aide to U.S. Rep. Bart Stupak; and Patrick McRae, U.S. Commercial Service foreign service officer.
